

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An interface card with a power supply includes a power module and a power charging module. The power module provides power to the host when the power supply of the host connected to the interface card is malfunctioning. When the capacity of the power module 5 is insufficient, it is recharged by the host power supply via the power charging module.